

DUNHILL

History: The Dunhill label was started by Lou Adler in 1965. Distribution was by ABC Records and he sold it to ABC just shortly after issuing a couple LPs. The last LP was issued in 1975.

Mono/Stereo identification: Mono releases had a "D-" prefix on the number while the Stereo ones had "DS-" as the prefix.

Label Numbering Series:

Standard Series: The 50xxx series was used on all standard releases.

There were a couple special LPs released as 55001, 55002, and 60000. The 5500x series came with the same label style as the standard series of the time they were released. The 60000 LP is shown as a special label at the end of the Dunhill listing.
